4. REPORT ON NATIONAL INTEGRATION PROGRAMME ON 19.11.2018

19th November, of every year is celebrated as National Integration Day in India, an honour to India's first Woman Prime Minister, Indira Gandhi. Commonly known as Iron Lady of India, this day is the birth anniversary of Indira Gandhi. As part of it Al- Ameen College on Behalf of Ethics and value Club has organised an integration programme on 19th November, 2018 where it showcases the importance of unity and integration among the individuals for a peaceful society and wellbeing. A total of 80 students have participated from all departments. Integration does not mean that there are no differences on any issue. Despite the differences, all accept what is in the larger interest of the nation. This national integration makes all citizens imbued with patriotism. They first consider themselves citizens of India, and next Hindus, Muslim or others. Notwithstanding differences in opinions and beliefs, all the people of a nation are full of mutual love, integration and brotherhood. National integration, thus, is a sentiment which reflects solidarity or patriotism among the people belonging to a nation. It fosters a common identity amongst the citizens of a country making them feel that they are all one. National integration makes the nation strong and organized. It holds the people of various religions, sects, races, dress, civilization and culture together. Despite several differences, all the people remain in mutual harmony with each other. India is a shining example of national integration. Very few countries have the kind of diversity that we have in our country. Here people of various castes and communities, whose lifestyle, cultures, languages and customs are completely different, live together. All are bound by the thread of national integration.

The major points discussed in the meeting were:

→ Integration begins at home

Prior to the discussion on national integration, there is need for the integration in family. Until there is integration at home, it is not possible to have integration in the society, the nation, and the world. Only integration can make the society develop. Integration is born out of the sense of organization in a society that leads to lasting peace and joy.

As long as the integration in homes or society is strong, the nation too remains strong. External powers in these circumstances, cannot impact the integrity and sovereignty. But whenever the national integration is fractured, the nation has to deal with a crisis. If we turn the pages of our own history, we see that whenever our national integration has got weakened, each time external forces have taken advantage of it and we had to live under them.

→ Need of National Integration in India

National integration is essential for any nation. In a heterogeneous country like India, it acts as a cementing factor. Over the years, Pakistan has been trying to weaken national integration by creating Hindu-Muslim differences and inciting anti-India feeling and insurgency in Kashmir. By these divisive politics, the British ruled India for hundreds of years. But when the people of India displayed "Indianness" by forgetting all their differences, the British had to go back from India.

National unity and integration is absolutely necessary for the stability of democracy, defense of freedom and all-round development of the nation. Until the whole nation is bound in a spirit of unity, there would not be any development or economic progress in the country. Therefore, it is the duty of every citizen to promote nationalism to reinforce national integration. We require a strong nation to protect national integration. So, we should suppress disruptive elements by staying away from petty thinking centering on caste, regionalism, religion, etc. 80 students were participated
